Heroes of the Storm Season 2: Colton Catchip's Guide Heroes of the Storm is an action MOBA based on the Warcraft universe. Although it isn't the first or most popular MOBA (League of Legends is the most popular) it has a ton of fans and is really worth playing. You can test your skills against anyone you can find on the official servers or you can try for the first time on our Heroes of the Storm League. Heroes of the Storm is all about team cooperation. Your hero must work with their teammates to accomplish their goals. The game is full of action and has plenty of options for customization, so pick the style that fits you best and feel free to get creative with abilities and items! The most important thing when playing Heroes of the Storm is to play as a team. Follow team orders and communicate during team fights to find out your best strategy. You can get a whole lot more information from these video tutorials that will help you improve your game. Do you want to be the next Champion? Or are you just getting started? In this guide we will cover the basics of Heroes of the Storm. We will go over how to play the game, what you need to play to be a successful team, and the best Heroes of the Storm champions to pick.

Team Setup The first thing you need to do is set up a team. You can have any number of people join your team. It is the role of each member to decide what heroes they want to play and if they want to be on the defensive or offensive side. Each player can have their own unique style and playstyle, but ideally you want all members of your team to play very similarly so you can work together. Once you choose your heroes you will need to buy the best items you can afford and configure the hero to suit your strategy. In general you want to buy a hero that compliments your teammates, if they already know how to play a certain hero, or a hero that can complement their playstyle. All of these items will help you win the game! Some items are very situational, and you will have to use that type of item to be successful on the right heroes, so you need to look at the stats on these items to help you decide if they are worth buying. Don't rush in and buy something just because it is cheap, save your money and buy a hero
